

Security Management
<<Server>>

BCrypt

The diagram shows a large rectangular container representing a package or namespace. Inside this container, there is a component named 'BCrypt'. The component is represented by a rectangle with two small rectangular tabs on its left side, indicating it is a component that provides interfaces or is part of a larger assembly.